

AMERICAN POLICIES UPHELD AS HAVANA PARLEY NEARS CLOSE

Final Session Today Sees Hughes as Dominant at Conference.

VICTOR UPON TARIFF AND ON INTERVENTION

Congress, With Predictions of Disaster at Assembling, Accomplishes Much.

Havana, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The sixth Pan-American Congress, which comes to a close tomorrow, marked a notable departure from the character of previous conferences of this type by being dominated by controversies of a political nature instead of confining its activities mainly to the study of tangible means of inter-American intellectual, social and economic cooperation.

Following closely upon widely advertised incidents in Nicaragua between United States marines and bandits and upon the unsuccessful efforts of the Argentine Ambassador at Washington to obtain mass importation of Argentine products through United States tariff barriers, the present conference began its labors last January amid general predictions of disaster.

Conference leaders, therefore, find matter for boasting in the fact that this conference has been second to none in the formulation of actual measures to promote inter-American cooperation and solidarity. They also regard it as the highest compliment to the ability of the United States delegation that the conclusion of every political outburst which seemed directed against them found virtually a vote of confidence in the policies of the Washington Government.

Hughes Provides Climax.

Events at Saturday's plenary session brought American diplomacy at this conference to its climax and provided the most dramatic scene ever witnessed in a Pan-American Conference. Arising to face a hostile majority Charles Evans Hughes, leader of the American delegation, shattered insinuations and denunciations of American imperialist purposes by talking hard realities to his critics. When he had finished virtually all opposition had been swept away in a flood of applause that rocked the conference hall.

Thus, on the eve of adjournment, one of two major political issues which kept the conference in a state of uncertainty for more than a month and which provided ground for a mass attack upon the United States' Latin-American policies has been cleared up. Even Dr. Gustavo Guerrero, of Salvador, leader of the irreconcilables in the matter of no international intervention, had to give way and withdraw his resolution on this question which had been introduced under such circumstances that a vote upon it would, in reality, have been a division upon American aggressiveness.

The United States also led the winning side in the tariff struggle, the other great political question which appeared for a time a serious threat to the tranquillity of the conference. All delegations, except the Argentine, soon rallied to the American standard and acting as spokesman, Mr. Hughes denounced the categorical demands of Honorable Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, that Pan-Americanism should tend to restrict and control the imposition of excessive tariffs and other obstacles to the free flow of commerce in the inter-American trade.

Results Are Drastic.

Mr. Hughes' speech was so vigorous in delivery and so forceful in argument that all the delegates felt that momentous results would be derived from it. A few days later Senor Pueyrredon received instructions from his government at Buenos Aires to abandon his intransigent position and that same day he resigned from both the Havana Conference and his post as Ambassador at Washington.

Injection of politics into the conference was not limited, however, to questions affecting the United States. The problem of Bolivia's outlet to the sea, generally of a political character between states on the west coast of South America, projected itself frequently in the discussions. Other local irritations peculiar to this hemisphere reached at Havana generally and it was noticed that no opportunity seemed to have been deliberately missed to make national viewpoints known.

Only a small number of new outstanding figures arose at this conference, although a great number of already established reputations were emphasized and enhanced further.

Policy Is Unwavering.

Mr. Hughes, by common consent, was by far the outstanding personality of the congress. His commanding personality and ability to influence profoundly the gathering by quiet advice and suggestions only resorting to more brusque and decided tones when fundamental principles upon which the United States stands were attacked and threatened, was widely commented upon.

In general, his policy at the conference never changed from the opening day. His delegation was ready at all

Mayor Walker at Station Here Sleeps During Stop

New York Executive, Mardi Gras Carnival Bound, Needs Rest After "Big Night" With Advertising Men at Banquet in Baltimore.

Mayor "Jimmy" Walker of New York, on his way to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras, slept soundly throughout his three and a half hour stop-over at Union Station yesterday morning, following a "big night" in Baltimore.

When the mayor's private car arrived at Union Station at 7:25 o'clock yesterday morning only William H. Egan, station master of the Pennsylvania Railroad in New York, was awake. The mayor and members of his official party were asleep. Mr. Egan explained to newspaper reporters that the mayor had had a "big night in Baltimore" Saturday and had expressed the desire to "sleep late." The mayor did. He was still asleep when the train pulled out of Union Station for New Orleans at 11 o'clock.

Mayor Walker spoke at a banquet given by members of the Advertising Club of Baltimore Saturday night. Members of the official party include Paul Block, publisher and intimate friend; Charles S. Hand, the mayor's secretary; Police Lieutenant John Howard; William E. McCormick, municipal bill drafting commissioner; and Mr. Egan, all of New York City.

Before leaving New York Mayor

Walker said he would not make any political speeches. His plans call for a week's visit in the Southland with his tentative return to New York set for next Saturday. The mayor expects to arrive in New Orleans today.

Sartorially the mayor is prepared for any event. His wardrobe includes 100 neckties of assorted variety, 6 business suits, two dress suits, a score of shirts, 7 hats, 8 pairs of shoes and a bag full of assorted spats, one of Mayor Walker's weaknesses.

En Route to New Orleans With Mayor Walker, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—New York's traveling mayor was a partial casualty today as he continued his journey to New Orleans and the Mardi Gras.

During the night an aching tooth caused him considerable annoyance as his train passed through Virginia and into the Carolinas. Tonight the mayor reported the situation under fair control without having had the train paged for a dentist.

When P. H. De Betts, Eastern passenger agent of the Southern Railway boarded the train at Washington and presented him the left hind foot of a rabbit, Mayor Walker said he would not

POLICE AND CORONER CLASH IN DEATH CASE

Nevitt Doubts C. W. Utterback Leaped or Fell From Hospital Window.

INQUEST WILL BE HELD

A clash of opinions occurred between District Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt and Tenth Precinct police over the cause of the death yesterday of Clarence W. Utterback, 58 years old, a patient at the United States Soldiers' Home Hospital. The pejsama-clad body of Utterback was found on a lawn beneath the windows of his ward.

The police report stated that the body was found at 12:15 o'clock yesterday morning and Utterback died in the hospital at 2:30 o'clock. The report also stated: "Upon investigation it was found he had jumped from a third-story window."

After viewing the body, Dr. Nevitt stated that he seriously doubted that the man either jumped, fell or was pushed from a window of his ward on the third floor.

"I examined the body very carefully," Dr. Nevitt said, "and I could not find one broken bone."

The coroner ordered an autopsy to be performed at the District Morgue this morning in an attempt to clarify the mystery. Authorities at the hospital declared they knew no motive for suicide on the part of Utterback and sided with Dr. Nevitt.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, chief of the homicide squad, after a conference with Dr. Nevitt, said here were no traces of violence attending the death. The only marks on the body were a few slight cuts on the face.

The Tenth Precinct police report stated that Edward Toland, an orderly at the institution, discovered Utterback, unconscious, on the lawn. Utterback was undergoing mental treatment at the hospital. He had been a patient ten years.

SEA FLIGHT PLANNED BY KAISER'S SISTER

Young Husband Will Assist Pilot; Mystery Hides Their Destination.

Berlin, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Princess Victoria, 61-year-old sister of the former German emperor, and her youthful husband, Alexander Zubkov, a Russian fugitive, are now planning a transoceanic flight. The couple, who have kept tongues in European society wagging by their actions almost continuously since their marriage without the approval of the former Emperor Wilhelm, declined today to reveal either the date or destination of their projected flight. They said that another Russian would be employed as pilot, with Zubkov as his assistant, and the Princess of Schaumburg-Lippe as the only passenger.

The princess said that they were looking for a nice home in Berlin in which to settle down, and still were on good terms with her family. Zubkov recently sustained serious injuries in a fall from his motorcycle, and shortly thereafter the couple sought rest at a health resort.

Vienna Loyalist Head Accused of Treason

Vienna, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The Neue Presse says that Col. Gustav Wolf, president of the Austrian Imperial Loyalist Party, has been charged by the superior court with high treason.

He was alleged to have promised the Hungarians the return of their lost territory of Bergeland and union of Austria and Hungary under a common king. The newspaper says that Col. Wolf will be tried soon.

BABY MISSING FROM CAR FOUND LATER IN SECOND

James Shuttleworth, 16 Months Old, Kidnaped, Then Abandoned, Belief.

SOUGHT BY MANY POLICE

For three hours last night headquarters detectives and police of the Fourth Precinct searched the northwest section for James Shuttleworth, the 16-month-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shuttleworth, of 117 Highland avenue, Bethesda, Md., who, about 9:30 last night had disappeared from the automobile of his parents parked in front of 5605 Thirtieth street northwest.

About 12:30 the infant was found in the automobile of Joseph Spano, parked in front of his home at 2947 McKinley street northwest, about a block away from the Thirtieth street address.

Police believe that the kidnappers had become frightened at the intensive search of the neighborhood and had placed the child in the Spano car "in order to get rid of it." They had previously searched the Spano car and found it empty.

According to Mr. Shuttleworth, he and his wife and the baby, and Mrs. Phyllis Shroyer, of the Thirtieth street address, had driven to Baltimore, and

Prehistoric Ape Man Tooth Is Wild Pig's

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—A tooth found in 1922 in Nebraska and accepted by scientists of the American Museum of Natural History as evidence that "ape-men" lived in North America millions of years ago, was said today by Prof. W. K. Gregory, of the museum to have been positively identified as the tooth of a now extinct wild pig.

Prof. Gregory originally persuaded that the tooth indicated that members of the higher ape family, or other near relations of humans, once existed in America, had decided it belonged to a specimen of the prosthennops, or ancestor of the peccary.

206.9-MILE SPEED MADE BY CAMPBELL IN HIS RACING AUTO

One Mile in Tryout Is Covered by Briton in 16.76 Seconds.

CAPTAIN NEAR DEATH SETTING NEW RECORD

Blue Bird Never Extended, He Says: Reached 220 Mark During One Lap.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British ace, today established a new world's speed record when he drove his huge Napier Bluebird Special over the hard beach course here at an average speed of 206.95602 miles an hour.

Literally burning up the sands with his giant machine equipped with a powerful twelve-cylinder motor of the British 'H' Service, Capt. Campbell exceeded by 3.16 miles an hour the former record of 203.79, set here last year by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, of England, in his Mystery Junbeam Special.

Taking a 4-mile running start, Capt. Campbell made his first run south with the wind, negotiating the official mile in 16.76 seconds for a speed of 214.70713 miles an hour, which was 11 miles an hour faster than Maj. Segrave's record. On his return trip north, made against a strong wintry wind, the Englishman covered the official mile in 18.03 seconds for a speed of 199.67223 miles an hour.

His average elapsed time, both ways over the course was 17.395 seconds and his average miles an hour was 206.95602.

Has Narrow Escape.

Immediately after he has crossed the wire at the end of the official mile Capt. Campbell narrowly escaped what might have been a serious accident when his huge machine struck a soft bump on the sand and for an instant the driver almost lost control of his car. Swerving dangerously at such a tremendous speed, the machine for an instant seemed to head for the soft sand dunes, which undoubtedly would have resulted in the death of the Englishman and demolishing of the car.

The bump, which was located higher on the beach than the British had intended to drive, threw him halfway out of the seat and for an instant his feet bounced completely off the brakes and accelerator. His goggles slipped down over his eyes, obstructing his vision, but he righted the machine and it roared on down the course, stopping near the end of the beach, 4 miles away. Mrs. Campbell, witnessing the epochal

MOSCOW FOOD SHORTAGE REACHES ACUTE STAGE

Textiles and Soap Also Are Lacking; Many Government Shops Close.

LIMIT IS PUT ON SALES

Moscow, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The shortage of flour, butter, eggs, soap, and textiles has reached such a serious stage here that the authorities have decided to take vigorous measures to remedy the situation.

While these commodities may be purchased at exorbitant prices in private markets, they are scarce in many of the government cooperative stores. Some government stores have been forced to limit sales owing to the lack of supplies. Purchasers have been standing in long queues for hours awaiting an opportunity to make their limited purchases of necessities. Sometimes they reached the counter only to be told that all of the goods of the kind they desired had been sold.

Several instances have been reported where the cooperatives ceased selling altogether to the public, although continuing to supply small rations to their members.

This situation, recalling the days of famine, has been attributed primarily to the grain shortage. The resignation of Alexander Petrovitch Symagor, commissar for agriculture, because of failure to manage the grain storing campaign which fell 2,000,000 tons short of the previous year, despite an increased harvest, was reported yesterday. A slight improvement in the grain situation has been attributed partly to the recent visit of Joseph Stalin to Siberia, where he issued new instructions to the officials there in the hope of persuading the peasant farmers to send their grain to the markets.

MONGADA, WHO LED NICARAGUA REVOLT, NAMED BY LIBERALS

Judge Medrano, of Supreme Court, Is His Running Mate.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Nominee Headed Rebel Army Against Diaz; Yielded to U. S. Forces.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Gen. Jose Maria Mongada and Dr. Antonio Medrano were unanimously nominated for president and vice president, respectively, by the national convention of the Liberal party held at Leon today.

Gen. Mongada is a prominent Liberal and was commander in chief of the Liberal Army during the recent revolution.

Dr. Medrano is a justice of the supreme court. The elections will be held on the first Sunday in October.

Gen. Jose Maria Mongada led the liberal armies supporting Dr. Juan Sacasa against the conservative forces of Adolfo Diaz, who was considered the constitutional president of Nicaragua, until Henry L. Stimson, as representative of President Coolidge, negotiated an armistice last May by which the Liberals laid down their arms in consideration of American supervision of a national election.

Under this agreement President Diaz continues in office to the end of his term in 1928, while a Nicaraguan constitutional assembly commanded by American officers, and United States Marine forces sought complete pacification of the country which has been torn by the civil war. Other liberal commanders gradually accepted the recommendation of Gen. Mongada that they lay down their arms until Augustino Sandino continued in the field. He still is opposing the American forces.

Two Hurt as Liner Responds to SOS

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Passengers were shaken and two members of the crew injured when the North German Lloyd liner Muenchen was caught in the trough of heavy seas in responding to a distress call off the English coast, her captain said today.

The Muenchen docked a day late in her run from Bremen, Germany. Capt. E. Wittstein reported he was delayed in turning about to go to the aid of an ocean-going tug in distress 300 miles west of Bishops Rock, England. He turned back on his course again when notified that other ships were standing by. In making both turns, the captain reported, his ship was buffeted by heavy seas. One seaman suffered a fractured wrist and another a fractured knee.

HOOVER DENIES STEPPING BACK FOR FAVORITE SONS

Declares Interview Saying He Would Not Be in Primaries Is Fake.

WRITER IS DISCHARGED

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Characterizing a purported interview published this morning by the Miami Herald as a "piece of sheer mendacity on the part of your correspondent," Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce and presidential candidate, in a telegram to the Herald from Savannah today, denied the story en masse and each paragraph individually.

He described it as "faked from beginning to end."

Mark Sullivan, political writer who accompanied the Secretary of Key West on a fishing trip and whom the Herald's Key West correspondent quoted in the story as Hoover's political spokesman, in a telegram denying the story, said that he "never talked with your correspondent or any other correspondent" and that "many of the things (statements) attributed to him in the story are known by me to be untrue and others I never heard of but believe to be untrue."

The story from Key West, released after the Secretary left that city on the way to New York, said, in quoting Sullivan, that Hoover had decided not to allow his name to be used in any State primary where he would be opposed by a favorite son, except in the case of Ohio where he already has authorized it. Such a policy would have debarred him from the Illinois and Indiana primaries, where Gov. Lowden and Senator Watson are in the race, according to the story.

The story also said the Dakotas and Nebraska would be left alone as

2 Shot at St. Louis; Gang Feud Blamed

St. Louis, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Two reputed members of the Rusco boogie and extortion gang were shot here last night in what police believe is a new outbreak between gangsters.

Thomas Cammarata, 38, and Gus Mercurio, 19, staggered into police headquarters and told of having been fired upon by unidentified assailants, firing at them with saved-off shotguns. Cammarata's left arm was shattered, while Mercurio suffered a scalp wound.

ITALIAN COLONIALS CRUSH ARAB REBELS

Leader of Tripolitan Force Flees; 100 Natives Die in Sharp Battle.

Tripoli, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—A semi-official statement today announced that Italian colonial forces under the command of the Duke of Apulia had inflicted a severe defeat upon rebellious tribesmen in the Giorfa region. About 100 rebels were killed and much equipment was abandoned when the tribes fled.

The shiek of the tribe, Abd-el-Djell, considered the directing hand of the rebellion, fled with his family, leaving behind all his belongings.

The operations began on February 9 and the Italian forces steadily advanced, although suffering much from lack of water.

Maharajah of Nabha Loses Title; Pay Cut

Delhi, India, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Official announcement is made that the government has deprived Maharajah Gurcharan Singh of his title and privileges and reduced his income from the state of Nabha from 25,000 to 10,000 rupees for repeated disloyalty. The Maharajah has been ordered to live henceforth at Kodalkanal, in Madras.

Tikka Sahib, the former ruler's minor son, will be installed in place of his father as Maharajah at the earliest opportunity.

Nabha is a state in Punjab taken over by the government of India in 1923 under an agreement whereby Gurcharan voluntarily separated himself from the state, but was allowed to retain his titles and the salute on condition that he remain loyal to the government.

GOV. SMITH SOLID IN WEST VIRGINIA; HOOVER HAS FIGHT

Leaders and Newspapers Favor New Yorker as Candidate.

LOWDEN AND DAWES GET WIDE SUPPORT

Republican Party Split Seen, Though Commerce Secretary Reported Gaining.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 19.—Divided Republican sentiment with prospects of a split delegation and united Democratic support for Gov. Smith epitomize the political situation as it now stands in West Virginia.

The most surprising feature of the situation is the whole-heartedness of the Smith sentiment, which apparently has such sweeping force that it is carrying Democrats of all denominations and varying degrees of dryness, as well as the Democratic press, along with it and there is a possibility that William H. Sawyer, affiliated with the Ku Klux Klan, hooded order, will be one of the Smith delegates to the Houston convention.

Sawyer is a prominent lawyer at Hinton, who has coal interests besides a State-wide army of friends, and he talked with C. W. Oesenton, Democratic national committeeman, who lives at Kanawha Falls, near here, and with former United States Senator William E. Chilton and others about becoming a candidate for delegate and declaring for Smith.

Oesenton, who left here today for the North, already has organized the State for Smith and expects West Virginia's sixteen votes to go solidly in the Smith column. He is a Presbyterian.

Senator Chilton Friendly.

Former Senator Chilton, with whom I had dinner tonight and who was for McDadd, is now friendly to Smith and thinks he will be elected if nominated. Chilton owns the Charleston Gazette, leading Democratic paper.

Seven candidates for delegate to the Democratic national convention have thus far declared for Smith, and there is no sign in the horizon of organized opposition. The list includes Gary Sawyer, who was expected to be a candidate for governor, and Angus MacDonald, brother-in-law of John W. Davis. Three women are on the list.

In order to analyze conditions here it was necessary to spend a day at Charleston, where Virgil Highland, Republican national committeeman, holds sway, and then investigate the situation in that part of the State before coming to Charleston, where latest reports are available from other strategic points. There are nineteen Republican delegates, including seven at large, from West Virginia.

Republican Split Near.

Virgil Highland will be a very important factor in the situation. He is a diplomat as well as a successful banker and skilled politician, and is not letting his personal feelings figure at this stage because he realizes that he speaks for a divided group which will compromise the delegation.

But, in discussing the outlook with Highland, I found that he has been feeling the Republican pulse in the various localities and finds at this time that there is every prospect of a split delegation.

But there is a preponderance of Hoover sentiment among the men who count politically, according to reports reaching Highland. The man on the street is not much interested, as the primaries are not to be held until May 29, and the popular interest will depend on whether or not Lowden followers become active.

There was considerable Lowden sentiment here in 1920, and much of it remains now in a dormant state, ready to be revived. In other words, the State would be fertile ground for the cultivation of Lowden sentiment or Dawes sentiment, but the men who would like to support Dawes do not know just how to go about it and seem to be under the impression that Dawes has taken himself definitely out of the running.

Hoover Holds Whip Hand.

This gives the Hoover men here the whip hand, because sentiment is crystallizing into Hoover and anti-Hoover camps, and, as the politicians point out, you can't beat a man with nobody, and there is a lack of organized support for any one but Hoover.

ATTORNEY DEFENDS AG KNOCKED SCHRODT IN DISMISSING JURY

Hughes, Defense Lawyer, in Letter to Gallivan, Says
Judge Was in Right.

HOLDS HOUSE MEMBER NOT INFORMED OF FACTS

Says One of His Clients Was Partly Drunk and Verdict
Was "Surprise."

The action of Judge Gus A. Schuldt in dismissing a jury which had returned a verdict of guilty against a liquor charge, which brought forth a demand by Representative Gallivan, Massachusetts, that the judge be ousted from the Police Court, was defended yesterday by Denny Hughes, attorney, who was counsel for the defendants in the case.

Mr. Hughes, in a letter to Representative Gallivan, reviews the case in question, and says that the representative apparently has not been informed of all the facts.

The defendants, according to Hughes, were proved by the evidence to have sold liquor to a police officer, who gave them marked money in payment. When the men were arrested a quantity of liquor was seized, according to the evidence.

Open-and-Shut Case.

"All of the Government witnesses in this case," the letter sets forth, "were members of the Metropolitan Police Department and the prohibition unit. No questionable informers were connected with this case. In truth, it was the most complete case presented by the Government for considerable time."

Mr. Hughes says that the Government's case could not be attacked "with any degree of success," and that he could not put the defendant on the stand "because one of them was partly under the influence of liquor at the trial table." He says that he was "considerably surprised" at the verdict.

The letter states that: "When the foreman of the jury delivered the verdict, and the same was repeated, the District attorney notified the Court that the Government would not prosecute any other cases before that jury. It was subsequently to that declaration that Judge Schuldt took the action that has brought the criticism."

"Naturally, you will wonder why I should come to the defense of one who apparently took action contrary to my interests. And this is easily explained in that I know that all fair men His Honor should not be criticized or condemned for his action in this case. The honorable jurors did what, in their opinion, was correct, and for that I respect them, but to one who spends his time in court, who is familiar with evidence, etc., the verdict in the case in question could not seem other than a miscarriage of justice. All of us are human and to err is natural, but I could not sit idly by and permit so fair and impartial a judge as Gus A. Schuldt to be publicly condemned without rising to his defense. I had knowledge of facts which could exonerate him in the eyes of his most bitter enemies."

upon returning to the Shroyer home, they had parked the car in front, and since the baby was asleep, had left him on the back seat, wrapped in two army blankets.

Every now and then while in the house, they looked out and saw the bundle still on the seat. When they went out to the car at 9:30 the blankets were still there, but the door was open and the baby gone.

Mr. Shurtlough said that he did not believe the baby had been stolen, but that he had opened the door himself, particularly since he had burned his left hand earlier in the day, and would have been unable to handle the baby.

Headquarters detectives Louis Wilson, Carlton Talley and E. E. Thompson were assigned to the case, and after their preliminary investigation, eight more headquarters men were put to work. Reserves of the Fourteenth Precinct were called out and, aided by neighbors in the vicinity, they began the search in the vicinity in the hope of finding the tot wandering about.

CLASSIC MUSIC RENDERED BY GEORGETOWN U. CLUB

Orchestra Assists Singers,
Who Give Concert Notable for Omission of Jazz.

GASTON HALL RENOVATED

Emphasizing the departing trend of collegiate entertainment from modern "jazz," the Georgetown University Glee Club, augmented by an excellent student orchestra, was accorded an enthusiastic reception at its midwinter concert last night in Gaston Hall.

The singing of the 60 Georgetown gleemen, which met with such success at the initial appearance of the season before the Washington Board of Trade, blended with the swelling chorus in a display of unusual advantage last night in a program replete with numbers from many of the old masters. "Jazz" was noticeably absent from the program.

Under the direction of Prof. Edward P. Donovan, director, and Prof. Richard M. McKoon, S. J., three sacred numbers of unusual character featured the glee club program. Organ notes, played by Robert Bruce with fine technique, blended with the swelling chorus in these impressive numbers, strangely foreign to the usual rendition of collegiate programs. The first of these was "Airs of the Dove," a Lenten chant, Gregorian, followed by "Quid Dormitis," by G. P. Palestrina, a responsorium from the office of holy week. The third was an effective number arranged especially for the glee club by Director Donovan and called "Ave Verum."

There were 21 numbers in the two parts of the program, and before the Glee Club could close with the usual "Songs of Georgetown," the many encores had prolonged the concert considerably. The Collegians, student orchestra, opened the program with "Arabian Dance," by Dvorak, and "Lebestraum," by Liszt. They were followed by the Glee Club in "The Beleguard," by Sir Arthur Sullivan, and "Passing By," by Edward Purcell. Among some of the other popular numbers were "See, Fever," a setting for John Massfield's poem, by the Glee Club, and "Kamennoe Ostrovo," by Rubinstein, rendered by the Collegians.

Special honors went to Francis K. Shuman, pianist soloist, who was particularly effective in four numbers—"Clair de Lune" (Debussy), "Polonaise E. Minor" (MacDowell), "Allegro F. Minor" (Bach) and "In a Three-Horn Sleigh" (Tchaikovsky). George Hof-fenberg, violinist, with Malcolm J. McRae, accompanist, was well received in "Liebesleid" (Kreutzer) and "The Indian Love Song" (Debussy).

The audience appeared enthusiastic over the new appearance of Gaston Hall, especially equipped with an enlarged stage and renovated throughout for this occasion and the debut of the Mask and Bauble Club next Saturday night.

The officers of the Glee Club are Joseph S. Mullen, president; Thomas McDevitt, vice president; Thomas McDevitt, secretary-treasurer, and Francis K. Shuman, accompanist. Members of the Collegians are Charles A. Bruns, director; Malcolm J. McRae, Frank H. Dwyer, Kenneth M. Nettles, Leonard Brumback, George Hoffenberg, Edmond F. Fish, Raymond J. Woods, Arthur P. Cannon, John F. Butler and William P. Pleistaker.

EDITOR BARS HAIRPINS IN BABY PLANE CONTEST

Action Taken to Put Boy Candidates on Equal Footing
With Girls.

MANY SEEK MEMBERSHIP

Hairpins are barred from use in the construction of the baby R. O. G. model planes described in The Washington Post of Sunday.

This action is taken by the Contest Editor following the receipt of a letter from one of the boys entered in the contest in which the boy explains that "it is a well-known fact that a woman can fix anything with a hairpin and they ought not to be allowed this advantage over the boys who do not have one."

The editor did not know that girls used hairpins any more. He thought they went out with the petticoat, but in order to give everybody a square deal the hairpin is hereby barred.

The kits for making the R. O. G. planes are ready for distribution in Room 40, Washington Post Building. They can be had starting this morning.

Prospects of winning a trip to the big national Airplane Model Contest at Detroit, to be conducted under the auspices of The American Boy and affiliated newspapers, of which The Post is one, has aroused great interest during the past week. Letters requesting membership in the Airplane Model League of America, which is free, have poured across the Contest Editor's desk and there is another big package awaiting opening this morning.

For the benefit of any boy or girl who did not get the first construction kit telling how to build the R. O. G. plane, there are a few Sunday editions of the local contest will be obtained at the business office of The Post. Better hurry if you want one for they are scarce.

Details of the local contest will be announced soon. Watch The Washington Post for details.

INVASION OF PORTER HOME JOKE BY BOYS

Army Major's Son and Chum
Held Up Another Youth
With Teaspoon.

The recent "mysterious" invasion of the residence of Maj. W. N. Porter, an executive officer of the Office of War Service, at 3227 Thirtieth place northwest, was solved yesterday by Fourteenth Precinct police. The "invasion" proved to be a joke on the part of the officer's son, William Porter, 16 years old, and a chum, Albert Crogan, 16 years old, police investigation revealed.

With Donald Cubbinson, 17 years old, son of Maj. D. C. Cubbinson, U. S. A., of 3313 Thirtieth street northwest, the boys entered the residence by the dim light of a lamp in young Porter's room, prior to going to bed. Maj. and Mrs. Porter were at the Edgewood Arsenal on an official visit.

Cubbinson told his father that an "intruder" entered the bedroom through the bathroom and shining a flashlight on "revolver" kept in the shadow portions of the room, he ordered the youths to darken the room. Porter and Crogan were ordered to stand with their faces to the wall and then the "invader" made his escape. Nothing was taken from the house.

Yesterday Capt. William G. Stott, Sergt. John Melucas and Detective Thomas Bragg of the Fourteenth Precinct, interviewed the boys and they admitted the entire proceedings was a plot between himself and Crogan to frighten the Cubbinson youth.

NEW DOMESTIC ORDER SCORED BY FREEMAN

Protection of Children From Vices of Age Is Urged by Bishop at Chapel Service.

This is the most dissatisfied period in human history, asserted the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, at the people's evening in Bethlehem Chapel yesterday afternoon. "The tragedy of the twentieth century," continued the bishop, "is that not even the children are safe from the vices of the age. The search for the novel and strange new means of self-expression."

Bishop Freeman attacked the worship of the novel, domestic science, and the worship of the machine, which he declared, "which strike at the very foundations of domestic and social peace," he declared. These new systems form an attack against the old, and the bishop declared the ideal of womanhood greater than any other witnessed in the twenty centuries of Christianity.

Worship of the god of personal liberty was also declared by Bishop Freeman, who stated that the present chief occupation of the nation was the circumvention of the law. He urged the observance as a part of good citizenship and called upon American parents to protect their children and homes from the vices of this "strange era."

SIDONS EXPECTED TO ISSUE DECISION IN OIL CASE TODAY

Justice Will Rule on Motion to Dismiss Jury-Shadowing Proceedings.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO EXTEND INQUIRY

Bailey Likely to Act Upon
Stewart Habeas Corpus Pleas This Week.

(Associated Press.)
Prosecutors of the widely ramifying oil investigation will tackle their tasks from four angles this week as Congress and the courts continue to add additional pages to the already voluminous history of the case.

Digging deeper into the disposition of over $3,000,000 in Liberty bonds, which the Continental Trading Co. purchased from profits of an oil contract guaranteed by Harry F. Sinclair, H. M. Blackmer, Robert W. Stewart and James E. O'Neill, the Senate Teapot Dome committee has summoned Blackmer's son Myron F. Blackmer, here from Denver to tell anything he might know of the deal.

The elder Blackmer, who has been abroad since the oil scandal first broke, has refused to return and tell what he knows of the Continental Co., which the Senate investigators contend he was largely instrumental in forming. In addition the committee has summoned Harold W. Kenwell, secretary to the Hyva Corporation, Sinclair's personal holding organization. He will be asked what Liberty bond transactions his organization has participated in. Part of the bonds, $233,000, were traced from Sinclair to former Secretary Paul Rule by Sidons Dues.

While the investigating committee will not resume until Thursday, action in other directions is looked for before that in the District of Columbia Supreme Court when Justice Frederick L. Sidons renders his decision in the criminal contempt proceedings against Sinclair, William J. Burns and their two associates.

The respondents have been on trial since December 5 on the contempt charges that were filed after it was learned that Burns' detectives, hired by Sinclair, were shadowing jurors in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case and a mistrial was declared.

Justice Sidons is expected to rule today whether a motion to dismiss the charges against Burns shall be granted and immediately the closing arguments will be started.

Stewart Decision Near.

In another branch of the court Justice Jennings Bailey will render his decision this week on a petition to make permanent a writ of habeas corpus by which Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, seeks to obtain his freedom from arrest. The Senate for failing to answer questions regarding the disposition of the Continental bonds.

If the petition is denied Stewart will be ordered returned to the custody of the Senate. If the decision is against him Stewart is expected to appeal. Stewart's refusal to answer questions asked by the Teapot Dome committee brought another angle to the case when District Attorney Gordon presented the matter to the Federal grand jury and asked his indictment under the penal code. Action on this phase also is expected this week.

IDENTITY OF DEAD MAN IS A MYSTERY

Only Tailor's Mark on Coat
Clew to Stranger Found Near Pohick Church.

With only a clothing label from a Brooklyn, N. Y., firm of tailors as a clue to the identity of the man whose mangled body was discovered in the trunk of a ravine near Old Pohick Church on the Washington-Richmond highway in Fairfax County, Saturday, officials expressed a doubt that the man's identity or the circumstances which led him to his end will ever become known.

Shirley E. Kirby, of Fairfax County yesterday sent a description of the man's apparel to the Brooklyn, N. Y., police department in the hope that "Young & Co." clothing store of that city whose name appeared on an overcoat label, would be able to shed some light as to his identity.

A blank memorandum book, a small pocket volume of the New Testament and an empty half-pint bottle, corked, were the only articles found in the dead man's pockets. The body had lain in the woods several weeks.

Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd, of Accotink, issued a certificate of death from "unknown cause" and the body was taken to an Alexandria undertaking establishment.

CENTENNIAL LEGION HONORS WASHINGTON AT '78 CAMP GROUND

Old Military Commands Represented at Exercises at Valley Forge.

TRIBUTE OF COOLIDGE IS READ AT MEETING

Would Have Been No Union Without General, Declares President.

Valley Forge, Pa., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Representatives of the Centennial Legion, representing all the old military commands of the original States, gathered here today in observance of the 150th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and the 150th anniversary of the encampment of the Continental Army at Valley Forge.

Tributes to the memory of Washington were read from the officers of the historic military commands, many of which originated in the revolutionary period.

Tribute from Coolidge. Also there was a tribute from President Coolidge, an honorary member of the Pennsylvania State Fencibles, which read:

"We have seen many soldiers who have left behind them little but the memory of their conflicts, but among all the victors the power to establish among great people a form of self-government which the test of experience has shown will endure was bestowed upon Washington, and Washington alone. Many others have been able to destroy. He was able to construct."

What he had around him many great minds does not detract from his glory. His was the directing spirit without which there would have been no independent Nation, no constitution and no republic.

"His ways were the ways of truth. He built for eternity. His influence grows. His stature increases with the increasing years. We can not yet estimate him. We can only indicate our reverence for him and thank the God who gave him to our Nation."

HORNED FROG, IN STONE 31 YEARS, FOUND ALIVE

Reptile Revives Slowly When Taken From Foundation Deposit of Courthouse.

MURRAY S. OF R. PREACHER MAY BE FORCIBLY FED

Eastland, Tex., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—A horned frog, sealed alive in the corner stone of the courthouse here 31 years ago, was alive when the stone was opened yesterday, according to County Judge "Swad S. Pritchard. The old courthouse is being razed. It is a Texas tradition that a horned frog can exist a century without food or water.

The corner stone containing the frog and a number of old newspapers, coins and Masonic emblems was opened yesterday. After awhile it opened its eyes, the presence of a "strong" curious residents who gathered to see the frog, dead or alive.

The frog was placed in a box in the custody of Judge Pritchard and is on exhibition. Efforts will be made to induce it to take food, and if necessary, the mouth will be opened by an operation.

LIDBERGH MAY PILOT 200,000 PIECES OF MAIL

100,000 Already Received for Colonel's Flight Over Old Route Today.

SIX PLANES NECESSARY

St. Louis, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—More than 100,000 pieces of mail had been received tonight for the flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his old route which he left a year ago to go to California where his spirit of St. Louis was being built.

It was estimated, however, that the amount of mail to be carried on the flight will total near to 200,000 pieces, as a flood of St. Louis mail was pouring into the mail boxes tonight. The mail on hand consisted largely of letters from other cities.

Six ships were made ready tonight to carry the letters. Col. Lindbergh will pilot each of the ships part of the way between here and Chicago.

Fair weather brought a crowd of 4,000 people to Lambert-St. Louis Field today in the hope of catching a glimpse of the famous pilot or seeing him fly. Lindbergh failed to appear until 4 o'clock. He expressed a desire to take the controls of a new Curtiss-Falcon plane recently delivered to the Thirtieth Division Air Unit, but as the ship was not ready until 5 o'clock, he was unable to do so.

Letters for Col. Lindbergh's mail have been written by Secretary of War Davis and Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of Air Corps, to be carried by the transatlantic flier today, on his two-day return to the air mail service.

The Secretary's letter is addressed to Gov. Sam A. Baker of Missouri, and Maj. Gen. Fechet's to Mayor Victor C. Schinnerer of St. Louis. The letters will be a part of the mail load which Col. Lindbergh will pick up at Chicago today.

Special to The Washington Post. New York, Feb. 19.—Dr. Louis I. Harris, New York City health commissioner, announced today that Mayor Walker had authorized him to purchase supplies for the treatment of lobar pneumonia, following the development of an improved method of treating the disease, discovered by Dr. Edward Banthaz, while working for the city.

The treatment, Dr. Harris said, eliminates chills and fever. He believes 10 per cent of 9,213 who died in New York from the disease in 1926 and 1927 could have been saved by the solution.

PASTORAL TESTIFY FOR MRS. GATLIN TODAY

Worley Expected to Show That Woman Asked Mother to Confess Murder.

SURPRISE BY STATE SEEN

Special to The Washington Post. Wentworth, N. C., Feb. 19.—The Rev. H. W. Worley, pastor of the South Salem Christian Church, will be introduced tomorrow as witness for the defense in the trial of Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin. It was he who was sent for, according to the accused woman, to hear a confession of murder from her mother, and who found her unconscious. The mother, recently questioned at Salem, said she remained at the bedside 3 minutes and then left.

The defense expects to show by him that the girl's presence implored her mother to unburden herself of the Smith Petty killing before she died. The Gatlin jury remains at Reidsville today in the care of a deputy. A surprise move by the State is expected tomorrow. Mrs. Gatlin is to take the stand again and is to be further interrogated by Solicitor Porter Graves. The ordeal she faces is that of explaining major points of conflict in her story of the killing of her father by her mother, as given on the stand and the answers she gave last August, before she was arrested, to the solicitor, who called members of the Petty family in for questioning.

Powell Glidewell also is to endeavor to prevent the Rev. Thomas P. Farney, Baptist minister, who has testified, from confessing the murder to him, from sitting opposite the girl and exercising what the lawyer alleges is "a hypnotic influence" over his client. All day Saturday Farney leaned forward with his dark eyes focused on the girl.

More character witnesses will be put on the stand for the girl tomorrow. Twenty Reidsville people, including the mayor and men and women active in church and civic work, already have sworn her reputation is good. Indications point to the completion of rebuttal testimony on Tuesday with the rest of that day and Wednesday devoted to seven arguments and Judge Cameron McGee's charge.

Thousands of Sunday motorists choked this hamlet of 400 people today and the Gatlin case has gone to make a Roman holiday, with little farm work being done in Rockingham County.

MAYOR WALKER, HERE, SLEEPS DURING VISIT

Mayor Walker reiterated today that he is not making his Southern trip to talk politics, and insisted that he will not say a word about Gov. Alfred E. Smith and his possible availability as a presidential candidate.

The governor had not asked me to mention his name in any speeches I may be called on to make," Mayor Walker insisted.

Before leaving Baltimore, Mayor Walker and Gov. Ritchie had a long conversation in which the Maryland governor confided to the mayor already has under consideration an invitation to debate with Ogden I. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn, on the subject of the chances for success of the two parties in the next election.

An invitation by telephone from Mayor Walker from Houston last night, urging him to continue from New Orleans on to the Texas city for a visit. As his plans for appearing in Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina on the return trip he was obliged to decline.

"I'll get to Houston in the morning," referring to the approaching Democratic convention there.

U. S. LEGATION HOUSE AT OTTAWA DELAYED

Construction Must Await Expiration of Lease on Site to Be Acquired.

While negotiations practically have been concluded by the United States for the acquisition of a site for the United States legation offices in Ottawa, State Department officials expect the purchase of the site to be completed in the near future.

The final agreement on the Pan-American Union covenant, around which so much discussion had raged while Dr. Pueyrredon maintained his tariff demands, caused great satisfaction in all circles. In practice the convention will not affect vitally either the economic or internal organization of the union excepting that the countries will be allowed to have special representatives on the governing board instead of diplomats regularly accredited to Washington.

Treaties Are Concluded. The committee on public international law has to its credit perhaps the greatest work accomplished by the League of Nations. It has been concluded regulating the status of aliens abroad and placing them on the same footing as nationals, stipulating the rights and duties of diplomats and consuls, and providing for the suppression and prevention of revolutions in each other's territory.

U. S. POLICIES ARE VINDICATED IN PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

Continued from page 1. The first to complete its work was the committee on social problems, which recommended adoption by all countries of the Pan-American sanitary code drafted by the commission at Lima, Peru. Other resolutions recommended cooperation in the development of hygienic methods. Red Cross societies, public sanitation and eugenics.

Of major importance was the adoption of a commercial aviation convention. Plans were also made for an inter-American automobile highway expected some day to extend from Canada to Patagonia. A Pan-American railway, better river navigation, improved cable, telegraph and radio communications also were outstanding among the recommendations.

Reports of the committee on intellectual cooperation adopted included recommendations for the protection of the rights of authors and artists, the publication of journals, prohibition of falsification or communication of false or exaggerated news relating to any American country.

Aspects of American immigration and emigration problems were touched upon but the subject was referred to the international conference on immigration meeting here next month.

The first constructive conclusion toward codification of private international law was reached at the conference. The Bustamante code deals with the juridical status of persons, marriage and divorce, commercial legislation, the bases of national law. Although the United States declined to participate in any convention on private international law and despite the fact that every country registered numerous reservations, adoption of the code was considered a marked advance in the development of international cooperation looking toward the solution of juridical problems.

Delegates to the congress today turned their individual attention to other matters, in contrast to the plenary sessions of yesterday, which, with accomplishment and turmoil, had lasted until President Bustamante finally called a halt in the late evening.

A plenary session which had tentatively been scheduled for today was called off by morning when it appeared that the work of the convention could be satisfactorily concluded in a final meeting tomorrow. Delegates passed today either in comparing notes on the success of the congress or in seeking the varied diversions which Havana offers. Many of them had left the city.

J. A. REED TO ENTER FIGHT IN WISCONSIN, MANAGER DECLARES

Primary There April 3 Will Be Contested; 26 Delegates Are Sought.

SENATOR BEGINS TOUR; DALLAS SPEECH TODAY

Candidacy to Be Pressed in Michigan and North Dakota, It Is Said.

St. Louis, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—An announcement that Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, will participate in the Wisconsin primary of April 3 for the 38 Democratic presidential delegates of that State was made here today as the senator departed for the Southwest on an extensive speaking tour.

Formal entry of the Missourian in the Democratic presidential race was authorized by Lee Meriwether, manager of the Reed headquarters in Washington, who accompanied the senator here from the Capitol, and he announced the step was taken with the consent of Mr. Reed.

It is the first move, he said, in a Nation-wide campaign planned by friends of the senator and for which they hold high hopes as he enters on a journey through the West beginning with a speech tomorrow at Dallas, Tex. Candidates may file in the Wisconsin primary through voters' petitions and without formal declarations by themselves and circulation of the petitions has been authorized in that State. The Missourian is said to be planning a stop in Wisconsin in returning from the Pacific Coast in March.

Looks to Two Other States. Mr. Meriwether revealed today that the senator's candidacy also may be pressed in North Dakota and Michigan, where filing dates for the primary close on March 1. In each instance entry may be made by voters' petition. The North Dakota primary falls on March 20, the first one, except that in New Hampshire, where Mr. Reed is not expected to contest.

"The party is looking for leadership," Mr. Meriwether said in a statement issued here, "and the mere announcement that Senator Reed is going through the West is raising forces about him. The West has been restive and it is finding its leader in the Missouri senator, who has done so much to reveal the corruption in public life."

Numerous requests, he said, were coming in to have the senator speak on his trip through the West, but he declared the program necessitated a confinement to the itinerary announced in Washington.

Fight in California.

San Francisco, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—A three-cornered fight in the Democratic camp in the California presidential primary election in May looms. Definite decision to enter Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, in the California primaries by placing delegates favoring him on the ballot has been announced by William H. Hughes, of St. Louis, who arrived here to perfect an organization.

The Al Smith Democratic leaders, headed by former United States Senator James D. Phelan, met yesterday and outlined plans for selecting men who will comprise the Smith ticket at the presidential primary. Senator Phelan was a supporter of William G. McAdoo at the last presidential election.

The third delegation in prospect will come from persons in the Democratic party who are opposed to both Reed and Smith. At a meeting of the State-wide organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union here recently, announcement of an anti-Smith ticket was made.

Willis Returning From Ohio Capital

Special to The Washington Post. Columbus, Feb. 19.—Senator Frank B. Willis left for Washington tonight after conferring two days with his presidential campaign managers on plans to combat Secretary Herbert Hoover in the fight for Ohio's delegation to the Kansas City convention.

The senator departed without definite decision having been reached on the question of his entering the preference trial primary. No decision has been reported by Hoover's management on the same question.

Dawes Prefers War To Senate Speeches

Newark, N. J., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Addressing the State organization of the American Legion here last night, Vice President Charles G. Dawes began his speech with the remark that war was preferable to listening to Senate speeches, and ended with a fervent "the American Legion is not in politics and I thank God for that."

His subject was "The Relation of Business and Military Principles in War."

The Vice President was introduced by United States Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey.

Edward E. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, in whose honor the dinner was given, pleaded for support of the Capper-Johnson universal draft bill, which proposes the conscription of all able-bodied men between the ages of 21 and 31 years in time of war.

Gov. Ed Jackson today, through his secretary, hinted that he might enter the Republican race for the United States Senate.

Jackson's term as governor expires this year and the junior United States senatorship from Indiana will have to be filled in the November election. Arthur Robinson now holds that office, having been originally appointed by Jackson to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Samuel M. Ralston. Robinson was elected for the unexpired term in 1923.

SMITH CAMPAIGN BEGUN IN TORCHLIGHT PARADE

Old-Time Political Rally Held at Pottsville, Pa., With Red Fire and Bands.

COPELAND IS SPEAKER

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—An old-time political rally with a torchlight parade, red fire and brass bands launched the "Al Smith-for-President" campaign in Pennsylvania last night.

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, was the principal speaker at a banquet following the parade, which was attended by many persons from all parts of the county.

Senator Copeland declared that Gov. Smith was the outstanding candidate for the nomination.

Answering critics of Smith, he said: "You hear that he is wet and a nullifier. Gov. Smith believes that the eighteenth amendment was adopted to stop the sale of intoxicants, but that the Volstead law actually prohibits the sale of nonintoxicating liquors."

"You hear that he is a Catholic. It behooves the Democratic party to find fault with a man because of his religion."

"This I know: Al Smith is an American first of all, and if ever the time came when he had to make a decision between following his church or following his country, he would follow the United States first, last and, all the time."

MYERS CALLED BEFORE COMMITTEE TOMORROW

Trade Commissioner Has Much Yet to Explain to Senators, Borah Says.

TESTIMONY IS NEW SNAG

(Associated Press.)

Abram F. Myers, Federal Trade Commissioner, has been summoned to appear tomorrow before a Senate judiciary subcommittee to explain testimony he gave concerning his course as an Assistant Attorney General in handling the bread merger case in which a consent decree was entered in the Federal district court at Baltimore two years ago.

While declining to reply to Myers' attack on him for the statement last week that there seemed to have been "lying and forgery" in the testimony and evidence, Senator Borah said that the commissioner still had to explain his verbal testimony that he acquainted Judge Soper, of Baltimore, with all the facts relating to the bread case at the time the consent decree was signed.

Myers has explained that the copy of the letter he put into the judiciary subcommittee record was that of one he wrote to Judge Soper, but did not mail, as he subsequently decided to amend it. This copy differs materially from the one the judge received and which he presented to the committee last Friday in protesting against strictures the committee's majority report made upon him.

A pioneer of TODAY

The pioneer spirit did not die with Daniel Boone. Nor did the days of the covered wagon and the gold rush to California mark the passing of the pioneer from the scene.

There are pioneers today—pioneers in science, in invention, in business. The American Oil Company was truly a pioneer when it created the first special motor fuel—AMOCO-GAS. Far in advance of the rest of the oil industry, research and laboratory work resulted in the discovery of this anti-knock motor fuel—and not until long afterward did others make feeble attempts to imitate its special qualities.

The American Oil Company was the first to advocate and introduce the visible gasoline pump—a protection to motorists everywhere.

Now AMOCO-GAS is pioneering in the skies! The longest non-stop flight—made by Chamberlin from New York to Germany—was made on AMOCO-GAS. The great U. S. Army Pan-American flight was made on AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oil exclusively—20,000 miles of faultless performance.

There are still pioneers—natural leaders by right of foresight and accomplishment. And high on that list must go the name of The American Oil Company.

Norris-Medary Wedding.
A wedding of interest to Washington took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Asaph's Church, in Baltimore, when Miss Nancy Medary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett Medary, of Baltimore, became the bride of Mr. William Laskey Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Norris, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Medary, of Taunton, Mass., an uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Benjamin Bird, rector of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a model of Ivory-toned satin and rose-point lace. The entire bodice was composed of the lace, also the long, close-fitting sleeves. The train of satin extended from the waistline. Her veil of tulle was arranged with a bandeau of orange blossoms at the back of the head, with sprays of the orange blossoms falling at each side. She carried an ivory prayer book tied with a long, white ribbon and a shower of lilies of the valley and white sweet peas.

Miss Rachel Medary attended as maid of honor for her sister. She wore a rose-colored tulle frock in two-toned effect, made with a full ruffled skirt. Her hat was a picture model of deep rose felt with a wide, velvet velvet, the same tone at the side. Her slippers were of gold and she wore flesh-colored stockings. She carried a bouquet of orchid sweet peas, yellow roses, white lilies and blue delphinium.

The bridesmaids included Miss Dorcas Doolittle, Miss Elizabeth Cunningham, Miss Marian Spenser, Miss Priscilla Barstow, all of this city; Mrs. George B. Bush, of New York, a sister of the bride; and Miss Anna, a cousin of the bride. They were similarly gowned in frocks of blue tulle with a full ruffled skirt, and their hats were of pale blue felt, trimmed at the side with large, velvet bows, and they wore silver slippers and flesh-colored stockings.

They carried bouquets of sweet peas, flame-colored roses, lilies and blue delphinium.

Wolford, of Washington; Mr. Richard Norris, a cousin of the bridegroom; Mr. Richard Medary and Mr. Bennett Medary, brothers of the bride. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. STUDY OF LOCAL TAXATION.

Representative Zihlman, chairman of the District committee of the House, will ask for hearings immediately upon his bill providing for an impartial inquiry into the fiscal relations between the Federal and District governments. The District appropriation bill reported last week provides that the Federal Government shall contribute a lump sum of $9,000,000 toward the cost of operating the District government, which will be in the neighborhood of $40,000,000 during the next fiscal year. There is hope that the Senate will strike out this lump sum and substitute the rule of proportionate contributions, with 40 per cent as the Government's share. But since Congress for several years has ignored the law that establishes the 60-40 ratio, there is no assurance that this year will mark a return to the law.

Whatever may be the decision of Congress on the pending bill, the Zihlman inquiry should be ordered. No one knows what is the just proportion that should be paid by the general government toward the upkeep of this District. Taxpayers are willing to pay their share of the cost, but they do not know what this share is; and when they see the District bill mounting each year, with the Government's contribution remaining stationary at $9,000,000, they feel that Congress is laying an unfair burden upon them. As the District is growing, the Government's contribution should grow also if it is to be a fixed sum.

The withdrawal of property from taxation as it is acquired by the Government for its building program also tends to increase the burden laid upon the local taxpayer. Where is the line to be drawn? Is the Government to take over huge areas of property, exempt it from taxation, and then refuse to pay a proper proportion of the cost of maintaining the District of Columbia? That is what a group of House members are attempting to do. They seek to justify their attempt by asserting that District property-holders try to overcharge the Government for real estate, and also that local taxpayers are not paying as high taxes as those of other comparable cities. Neither of these assertions is true. The Government is fully protected against extortionate prices by the condemnation process. Local taxpayers are paying heavier taxes than those paid by taxpayers of most of the American cities, as can be readily ascertained. The Government's property here is fully served by the fire, water, sewer, police and other municipal systems. If the Government were to pay taxes upon its local property the sum would run into many millions.

The only equitable method of taxation in Washington is by fixing the proportion to be borne by the Government and the taxpayers. This proportion, once fixed, would always be just and equitable, and would meet all future growth without friction. When the 50-50 ratio was established in the '70s the proportion of Government-owned tax-exempt property in the District was much less than it is now; yet the legislators of those days agreed that the half-and-half rule was equitable. It was acceptable to both sides until a few years ago. It should not have been disturbed. But now that the question has been raised, a thorough study should be made by impartial authority, to ascertain just what shares of the burden of taxation should be borne by the Government and by the taxpayers of the District.

GAUDY UNIFORMS.

Instructions have been issued by the Department of Justice which will enable the general public to distinguish between a major general and a bus driver. The embarrassment that some persons may have felt when confronted with a request for a ticket by a personage who resembled in almost every detail a commanding officer is to be alleviated. The law on the subject has been defined to cover such limitations of regulation issue as "so closely resemble that prescribed for the use of the Army that, but for close inspection, mistake on the part of the public is likely to occur."

Owners of bus lines and the employees thereof need not be disconsolate. There are plenty of imposing combinations of color and braid left for them to choose from. It might be considered natty to have the uniforms of drivers and conductors match the colors of the vehicles which they operate. Maroon coats, orange pants and white puttees are calculated to strike a note that no passenger is likely to forget, much less mistake. So many combinations suggest themselves, in fact, that no good reason can be seen why the choice should have fallen on material and cut that so closely resembles an Army uniform.

The use of variegated colors by bus drivers might indeed form the opening wedge for the adoption of such a style by men generally. At the present time only those men who follow the hounds have the opportunity to adopt plumage approaching in brilliance that worn by women. There have been men always who have protested that they should be granted an equal opportunity to array themselves in a similarly gaudy manner. The bus drivers could, therefore, become the disciples of the new styles and spread the changes in fashions through the countryside.

PANAMA CANAL CAPACITY.

Legislation vital to the future of the Panama Canal, if the isthmian waterway is to meet the demands of commerce, is contained in the present War Department appropriation bill. The measure includes an item of $250,000, for beginning work on a dam across the Chagres River at Alhajuela. The project will eventually cost $12,000,000 and will take five years to complete, circumstances that make immediate action imperative if the canal is to keep up with the demands that are being put upon it.

The Panama Canal is dependent upon the Chagres River for the water necessary to operate it within the locks. A natural reservoir was formed at the time the waterway was built by the creation of Gatun Lake. It is necessary in the tropical climate to store up sufficient water in the rainy season of four months to last through the eight months of the dry season. In the original plans a margin of 7 feet was allowed between maximum high water in Gatun Lake and the minimum under which Gatun cut could be successfully navigated. This was thought at the time to be an ample safeguard. No one anticipated the rate of growth that canal traffic has enjoyed.

Any deviation of rainfall below the yearly average at the present time might bring serious consequences to the operation of the canal; nor can it be enlarged without provision for a greater reserve of water. The dam at Alhajuela will, it is estimated, form a 22-mile reservoir providing for the storage of 22,000,000,000 cubic feet of water. The dam could be used also to control the Chagres River, which in flood stage presents a dangerous problem to the canal authorities.

It certainly would not be well for Congress to neglect improvement of the canal up to present and future capacity. The waterway is one of the most profitable investments that this nation has ever made, both financially and as a means of quickening trade. Congress should look ahead to the day when shipping passing through it will be doubled and trebled.

THE HOUSE OF DETENTION.

The plan of the District Commissioners to locate the House of Detention in a building directly south of the Capitol has created a miniature riot among members of Congress. It appears that the owner of an unfinished apartment house prevailed upon the Commissioners to take the structure over for the use of the Police Department.

Chairman Madden, of the appropriations committee and Mr. Tilson, the Republican leader, when asked if they had objections to the use of the building as a "jail" replied that they personally did not object, and the Commissioners were preparing to enter into a lease for the "temporary use" of the property when the storm broke. It has been suggested that the time may come when Congress may need a jail for the accommodation of recalcitrant witnesses, but the members are not anxious to have the penal institution staring them in the face.

So loud and so emphatic were the criticisms of the action of the Commissioners that the committee on appropriations reached the conclusion that having authorized the expenditure of many thousands of dollars for the improvement of the grounds around the Capitol, it will be unwise to permit the establishment of a prison so close to the halls of legislation. As a result the committee has directed that the Commissioners be advised that their plans have been vetoed.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY.

High rates of wages offered to women in industrial occupations, in comparison with what they might obtain in other lines of endeavor, are bringing about an increase of such workers. Automatic machinery offers an advantage to women workers, as it tends to lighten the burden and makes it safer. Women are capable of taking charge of many mechanical processes and operations. During the World War, feminine capability for doing certain branches of industrial work was demonstrated. Since that time the number of women industrial workers has been greatly increased.

In Binghamton, N. Y., with a population of about 67,000, of whom 25,000 are wage earners, nearly one-third of the wage earners are women and 45.5 per cent of them are married, according to a survey by the New York State department of labor. Among the women engaged in strictly manufacturing operations in that city, 50.9 per cent are married.

The National Industrial Conference Board carried the survey a step farther, disclosing that in all cities of the United States with a population between 25,000 and 100,000, 23 per cent of the women workers are married.

The median annual wage of single women workers in Binghamton industries is $855.68, while that of the married women is $877.12. Because the work is attractive, and the supply plentiful in many districts, it is an easy matter for married women to increase the family income or to become self-supporting.

COMMEMORATION OF THE GREAT.

The mansion in Piccadilly, London, known as Albany, from Frederick Duke of York and Albany, who at one time owned it, was converted into suites of chambers in the early part of the nineteenth century, and from that time to this it has rarely been without some distinguished occupants. The trustees of the building have recently put up two plaques to commemorate the residence there of three famous men. On one plaque, in veined statuary marble, are images of Byron and Bulwer Lytton, both of whom at different periods occupied the same apartment, namely, L2 Albany, Byron from 1814 to 1815, and Lytton from 1835 to 1837. On the other plaque, in Hopton woodstone, is an image of Gladstone, who occupied L2 Albany from 1833 to 1840.

Apart from their having had the same address, it is appropriate enough that Byron and Lytton should be honored together, for the careers of both were in many respects singularly alike. Both began by throwing a cloak of romance over debaucheries, pirates, and other naughty people; both were unfortunate in marriage; and the writings of both, highly thought of at first, have since gone into more or less of eclipse, although in this matter Byron is not in quite as bad case as is Lytton. Both, too, left Albany to embark on the sea of matrimony and lost their ventures. It was while resident in L2 Albany that Byron wrote both his "Ode to Napoleon," with its magnificent tribute to George Washington as "the Cincinnatus of the West," and "Lara," in which he is generally supposed to have given a continuation of "The Corsair," whose hero's name was "link'd with one virtue and a thousand crimes." Within the same walls Lytton wrote "Pelham," his first story and by many considered to be his best.

Gladstone lived in L2 Albany at that period of his life when he was much perplexed as to what career to embrace, the law or the church. In the end, he took up neither, but devoted himself to politics. He enlivened the time by giving decorous breakfast and dinner parties. Among his guests was Wordsworth, who, as the host himself tells us, was in the habit of wearing gray worsted stockings over black silk, taking them off punctiliously before entering the dining room, and putting them on again carefully when he left.

It is somewhat incongruous, perhaps, to associate the memory of Gladstone with that of Byron or Lytton. At the same time, it must be conceded that each of the three is well worthy of the honor done him by the Albany trustees.

GOING INTO POLITICS.

Some time ago the National Retail Druggists Association urged its membership to get into politics. Pointing out that legislation beneficial as well as detrimental to druggists is before Congress and State legislatures, and calling attention to the fact that such matters as taxes affect each and every member of the business, the association urged its members to take active interest in candidates for office, both individually and by exerting the influence built up through daily over-the-counter contact with customers. Resolutions adopted by Democratic and Republican retail druggists clubs in this city recently prove that the apothecaries are getting into politics. The resolutions, directed to the two national committees, offer cooperation for the purpose of "encouraging all the people to vote throughout the United States for the nomination and election of clean and capable men for public office."

The druggist in politics needs no defense. Government affects his business and daily life. He has adopted the right attitude in assuming a personal interest in the type of man that after election becomes part of the Government and in essaying to influence the election of capable officials.

The idea might be extended. Druggists have blazed a path that grocers, laundries, managers of great industries and corporations, bootblacks and every other business group would do well to emulate. The country needs a rebirth of interest in politics.

POLICING MILITARY ROADS.

About a year ago a bill was passed by the Senate authorizing the United States park police to assume jurisdiction over the military highways leading out of Washington. The House failed to take action upon the bill. The project has been revived, however, and it is expected that a similar bill, authorizing the park police to assume jurisdiction over military roads to a point 5 miles below the District line, will be introduced in both houses shortly.

Conditions are bad along the military road leading from Washington to Fort Myer and Arlington National Cemetery. Arlington County officials have no jurisdiction over the highway. The military forces garrisoned at Fort Myer are not available for duty in policing the road. Furthermore, since the highway is utilized primarily by civilian traffic it would seem best that its policing be placed in the hands of a civilian agency.

The highway is without police protection most of the time, and it is to correct conditions there and on other roads that the bill is being prepared. The office of public buildings and public parks, under the authority of which the park police function, is willing to assume the burden of policing military roads providing an appropriation be made to provide the necessary personnel and equipment. In the interest of safety of those who utilize these roads the legislation should be passed.

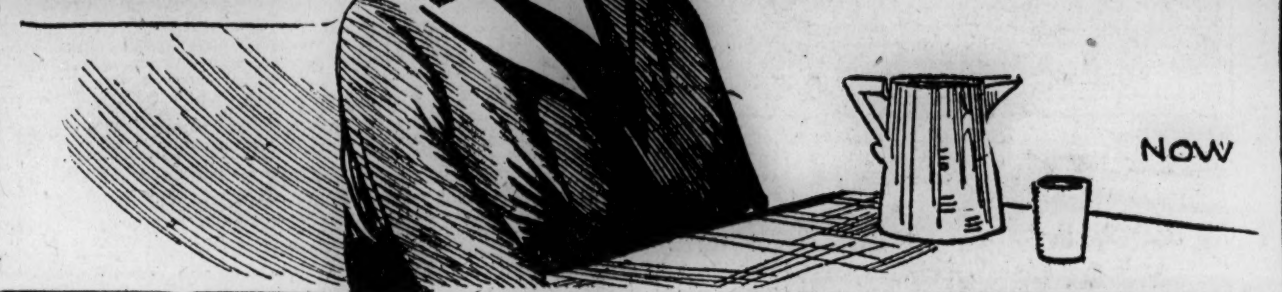

The Senate committee on pensions has before it a bill to grant a small pension to Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, widow of Vice President Marshall. It would be seemly if this bill were put forward without delay and passed unanimously by both houses. The republic owes much to the late Vice President and should not debate the question of manifesting in this appropriate manner its appreciation of his services.

The world's automobile speed record now stands at 206 miles, accomplished yesterday by Malcolm Campbell in a British car at Daytona Beach. Capt. Campbell made one mile in sixteen seconds. He lived to tell the story, which is the most surprising thing of all. Nothing of value to the automobile industry is gained by these exhibitions, as the cars are of freak design and the engine power far beyond any practical requirements.

The nimble-witted press agent has once more "put it over" on the New York papers. A French dancer who attempted to commit suicide in a Central Park lake for the morning editions was revealed in the afternoon issues as a seeker after publicity for the night club in which she worked. Men responsible for such hoaxes are often called clever. They are not. Every publicity hoax makes it harder for press agents to earn a living. The "clever" ones in the end will drive the species into starvation.

Between Carrollton and Greenfield, Ill., the roads are impassable and the mud is knee-deep, a combination of conditions calculated to discourage any one having business between the two towns. The Carrollton Independent basketball team, however, having determined to go through with the game it had scheduled with Greenfield, commandeered a hand car belonging to the Chicago & Dalton Railroad and pumped its way over the 14 miles separating the two towns. It was beaten, 58 to 8, possibly because of the fatigue induced by 14 miles of pumping. The least that Greenfield can do in appreciation of such indomitable spirit is pump the Carrollton team back home.

PRESS COMMENT

Inside Information.

Atchison Globe: "Inside information" gets on the outside quicker than any other kind of information.

Question.

Dallas News: And if there is music in heaven, where do the musicians go when they have to tune their instruments?

How Different From Europe?

St. Louis Globe Democrat: China proves to be a self-sufficient nation. She carries on her war without borrowing a cent from us.

Or on Easter.

Boston Transcript: Don't break up your snow shovel for kindling wood just yet. It may come in handy along about St. Patrick's day.

One and the Same.

Coshocton Tribune: While in a Persian marriage ceremony the bridegroom is not present, in this country he is merely among those present.

For Successful Marriage.

Cincinnati Enquirer: If they ever make cooking schools more popular than dancing schools there are going to be a heap more successful marriages.

Natural Fear.

San Francisco Chronicle: You can't blame the South for feeling that way about Tammany. Other animals, as well as the donkey, fear the tiger more than the elephant.

Conundrum.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: We submit this as a conundrum. When is a constitution not a constitution? When it is shot so full of holes that it becomes a legal Swiss cheese.

Urban Perils.

Detroit News: A New York motorist complains that while driving through Central Park, minding his own business, he was suddenly and for no reason, attacked by five lamp-posts, three tall ones and two short dark ones.

The Insanity Test.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Of course we do not expect the millennium for years upon years, but it should be possible to have some test for insanity other than murder.

Take Your Choice.

Trenton Times: Nationally speaking: A Republican is a man who favors farm relief, tax reduction and flood control. And a Democrat is a man who favors flood control, tax reduction and farm relief.

This Year.

Minneapolis Journal: We recognize this year as 1928; the Mohammedans call it 1346; the Jews, 5688; the Japanese, 2587; and the Byzantine calendar says it is 7436. The chances really are that it is about 1,000,000,000.

Not a Speaking Likeness.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A statue of President Coolidge has been presented to Amherst, his alma mater. People look at it steadily for a few minutes, observe that it does not speak or move, and think it is the man himself.

Time Passes.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: The men who were fairly well on in years when the World War was in progress have become old men, and in the orderly course of nature reports of the death of leading characters in that struggle will appear with increasing frequency as the years pass.

To Choose or Not To.

New Orleans Times Picayune: Another president is offered an opportunity to choose or not to choose. The Mexican Congress, with the assent of Mex-

The Brilliant Wait

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ALL democratic institutions hobble the able. In public school, the brilliant members of a class are held back by the dumb. Progress is timed to fit the gait of the slowest.

The fact that you are reading this is evidence that you are not what is commonly called a boob. As a rule, none but intelligent people read the editorial pages of respectable newspapers.

Since you are not a boob, you realize that the progress of our civilization is retarded by the dumbness of those who are boobs. New and better ways can not be adopted until the slow wits of the majority have comprehended and approved them.

This being true, the way to speed up progress is to speed up the boob. Under present conditions, the case of the boob is almost hopeless; for nobody in whom he has confidence will bother to disabuse his mind of follies and teach him what is true.

There are teachers in abundance, but the boob does not read what they have to say and would not believe them if he did. Many persons and publications are devoted wholly to exploiting the boob; not one is devoted wholly to the business of enlightening and safeguarding him.

How can he be reached? How can an honest man win his confidence and make him believe?

The answer is not far to seek. One characteristic of the boob, though better men share it, is his faith in abstract government. To him, any President is a great man; any official statement from Washington is true; a Government bulletin can not err.

If his mind is a storehouse of follies; if he believes Rome is trying to overthrow American institutions; if he believes newswatching agencies are controlled by British capital and used to broadcast British propaganda; if he believes Wall street bribes Congressmen to secure the passage of the laws it desires; if he believes there is a conspiracy of dishonest men to thwart the beneficent plans of the Bleases and Heflins; if he believes any folly whatsoever, one word in an official Government bulletin would disabuse his mind. "It's a pack of lies," he would say; "my copy of the Government bulletin says there isn't a word of truth in it."

He will believe what Government tells him.

Why shouldn't there be a Government weekly, printed primarily for boobs, to explain the a-b-c of contemplated progress and present the simple truth to replace the foolish notions that now occupy the boob's mind and make him a drag on civilization?

Niagara Falls might retain its place as an American mecca by hiring a few good divorce lawyers.

Example of circumstantial evidence: Chicago is like she is; she is the only city that has Big Bill for Mayor.

England's row about the prayer book might be worse. Suppose they were trying to change the choir leader.

thirds of the states' legislatures, has construed a clause in the Mexican constitution as a permission to extend a presidential term for two years beyond the normal four. Calles must make his decision on or before December 1, 1928.

Rich Men's Money.

Brooklyn Citizen: Here is another instance of the way in which American men of wealth are giving their money to benefit the public. A gift of $500,000 is announced by Commander Evangeline Booth, of the Salvation Army, from John Markie, coal operator, whose recent gifts to charity have totaled nearly $5,000,000. The money just donated is to be used to help erect an up-to-date residence for young business women on the Salvation Army property in Fourteenth street, Manhattan.

The 100,000th Citizen.

Baltimore Sun: Hagen, in the Ruhr, has given 250 marks to the baby girl who has just pulled up the population of that German city from the unimpressive figure of 99,999 to the entrancing total of 100,000. And now all the babies who didn't choose to be born when they were so badly needed will be regretting it. Here, too, is a question worthy of the best German metaphysicians—that of the duty which lay on various nonexistent infants to help their fellow citizens (and can they have fellow citizens?) to attain mention in statistical almanacs as living in one of the "important cities" of Germany.

WINDSHIELD STICKERS.

Windshield stickers have been barred by Pennsylvania law, says the New Castle Courier. The driver who peers out through a flock of bathing beauties or from behind a couple of safe driving posters or a pattern of stripes is taking chances to which the rest of traffic should not be exposed. The windshield of a car is no place for advertising or for display of decoration. It is intended to afford the clearest possible vision of the full width of the roadway. A sticker as big as a man's hand will completely hide a pedestrian at close range and a car a few yards away. It is simply adding to the risks of motoring. The rear window of a car is about as important a means of vision, with the customary inside mirror set to keep the driver informed of what is on the road immediately behind him. Every sticker pasted on a rear window is an obstruction to the driver's clear view to the rear. Careful drivers frequently use both the inside mirror and another outside the car body on the left, giving a special view of any car attempting to pass from the rear. The motor car sticker is out of place on glass, no matter where. If a man wants to turn his car into a billboard or display his ideas of bathing girls or safe driving, the only safe spaces to do his motor bill posting are on the parts of the car that have nothing to do with vision. Wise men will not obstruct motor vehicle windows.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Printing Office Employees.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: Please allow me to take exceptions at a part of your editorial of The Post. Under heading, "Saturday Half Holiday," you said all Federal employees, exclusive of the P. O. employees, worked but 42 hours per week. In that I take exception. I know most all do. But do you realize the Government Printing Office employees work full 48 hours per week and many hours overtime? And that is one office where no sick leave is granted. In a way the Government Printing Office is the hub of the wheel that turns the Government, because they do work that the rest of the offices must have before they can go ahead. And there is not a man or woman there that would not work their heads off for the best book in the Government, Mr. George H. Carter.

BILL WILLIAMS.

Saturday Half Holidays.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: No new act of Congress is necessary to make Saturdays after 12 o'clock noon legal holidays in the District of Columbia.

By referring to the code of law for the District of Columbia amended June 7, 1924, page 396, you will find that Saturday after 12 o'clock noon is a legal holiday for all purposes. (Case of O'Connell against North, 24 D. C. App. 296; 38 L. R. 655 is cited.)

The act of March 15, 1898, fixing the working hours for the civil service employees in the District of Columbia is not discretionary but mandatory, and can not be repealed by nonobservance. By referring to R. S., vol. 30, page 316, section 7, of the above-cited act it will be seen that all legal holidays are excepted and contains the following proviso: "That the heads of departments may, by special order, stating their reasons, further extend the hours of any clerk or employee in their department, respectively."

At the time this act was passed Saturday afternoon was not a legal holiday in the District of Columbia. Why not repeal the present law and permit the national banks to keep open and continue business after 12 o'clock noon on Saturdays?

FRANCIS D. YATES.

THE WATSON MACHINE.

Senator James Ell Watson's political machine in Indiana is being oiled all over and is ready to carry his presidential campaign into every nook and corner of this State, says the Anderson Daily Bulletin (Democratic). His machine is a new 1928 political model of the most powerful strength and smashing type. Its weight, quality and power have been tested and will work perfectly. No flat tires in the Watson machine are possible. The machine's entire mechanism is perfect. On the presidential campaign in Indiana it has no competitors.

The Indiana race for delegates to the Republican convention is already won. They are Watson men—tried and true. The delegation will serve him loyally and do his bidding. It will be hand picked. In fact, his faithful lieutenants have already selected most of the delegates. Senator Watson will have a united party backing him. There is no outstanding man, or group of men, in Indiana that can defeat him in the primary, or for delegates. He has a clear field. In the last 25 years he has whaled in separate turn every prominent Republican in Indiana. He has them cowed. He rules, runs and controls his party in this State. His trusted aids have an active organization in every county. In Madison County the Watson organization is exceptionally large in numbers and efficient and powerful. No one mentioned for the Republican nomination has, in his State, such a virile organization as Watson has in Indiana. Any Republican opposing him in Indiana will be cast into the political discard. The senator has an excellent chance to be his party's nominee.

This Enormous and Unnecessary Loss Must Not Go On!

LAST week, in another city, a five-year-old lad, intent on delivering a valentine, darted into the path of an automobile and was killed. If this were but a single isolated case it would not be quite so serious. But accidents of this kind are being duplicated in other cities every week. The number of innocent little children that are killed each year on our streets and highways is appalling. Only through concerted community-wide effort and constant vigilance on the part of every individual can we effectively cope with the situation and at least reduce the number of fatal accidents to children.

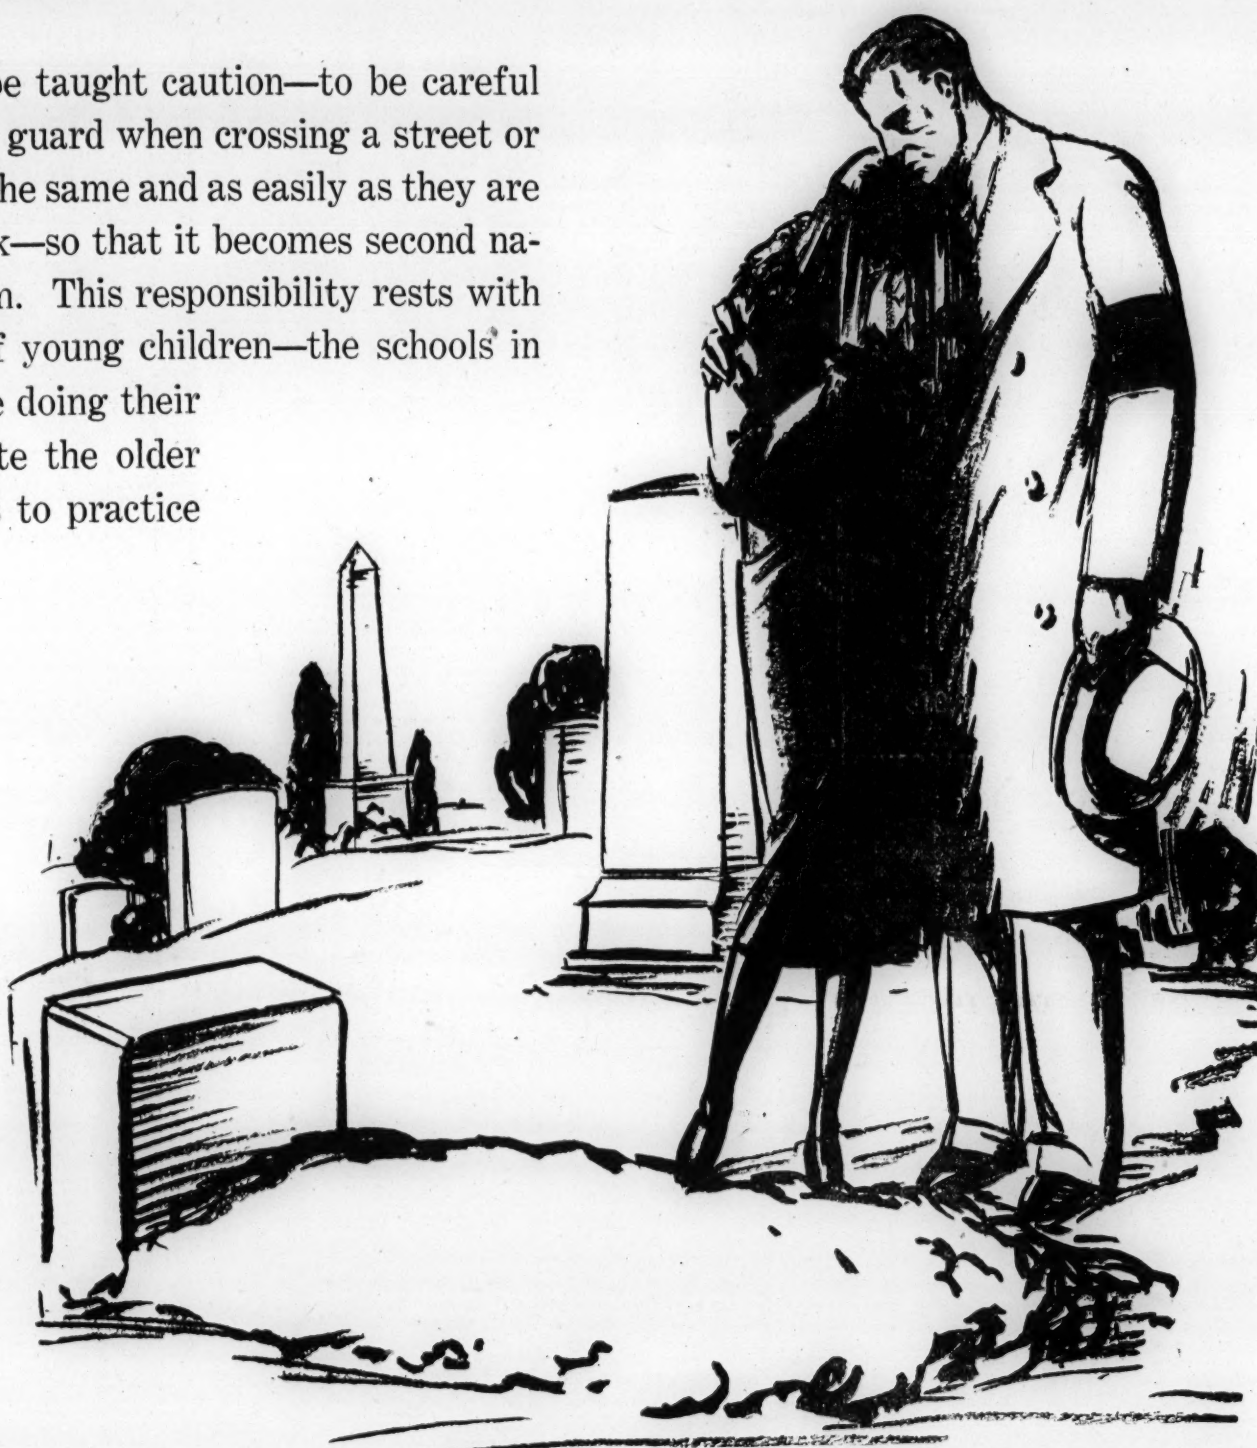

Rarely is the child wholly to blame. Their little brains can not be expected to be ever alert to the dangers at hand when absorbed with the thought of some immediate objective. And seldom is the driver of the motor vehicle to blame when a child suddenly darts in front of his vehicle without warning.

The responsibility really rests on both as well as the parents of the child. Motor vehicle drivers must slow down when approaching or passing a section where there is a child or children even though they are on the sidewalk. You never know what thought may suddenly take possession of a child, making him oblivious to his surroundings. So, in order to avoid the possibility of accident, keep your motor vehicle under such complete control that you can stop instantly if necessary.

Children can be taught caution—to be careful and always on guard when crossing a street or highway just the same and as easily as they are taught to walk—so that it becomes second nature with them. This responsibility rests with the parents of young children—the schools in most cities are doing their part to educate the older boys and girls to practice safety.

It Can Be Prevented

Through this Safety Campaign the Washington Business Concerns whose names appear below are cooperating for your welfare. Lend them your full support.

U. S. SECOND IN WINTER SPORTS

Yankees Win Bobsled Finals; Norway Is First in Olympics.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—American bobsleighteers continued their great work down the chute in the finals today, outclassing all other competitors in this thrilling series to land the United States in second place in the Olympic winter sports carnival. Norway was returned the winner of the meet for the second time while Sweden was third.

The Norwegians carried off the premier honors through brilliant efforts in the skating and skiing events, even though they did not take part in the hockey competition.

Finland, which was second in the rankings at the last competition, finished fourth with Austria next and Canada sixth.

The Canadians captured the Olympic hockey championship by a 13-to-0 victory over Switzerland.

William Fiske, of the United States, captured first place in the bobsleigh finals with John Heaton second and Paul Killi, of Germany, third. The Argentines, Gramajo and Hope, placed fourth and fifth, while Ernest Casimir Lambert, of Belgium, was sixth.

The fastest time in one descent made by Heaton today was 1 minute 38 7/10 seconds, exactly 10 seconds slower than the world's record for the track held by Martineau, of England.

Canada supplied the fireworks on the closing day with an exhibition of hockey, such as has never been witnessed outside of the Western Hemisphere, in defeating Switzerland by 13 goals to 0.

26 BALTIMORE ENTRIES IN MEET

Agee has youth, speed, endurance and confidence, and Baltimore fans are looking for him to represent the United States in the Olympics.

Baltimore will also have thirteen fast runners in the girls' events. Included among the entries in this class are some of the best female athletes in the State. The Vagabond Club of Baltimore, will be represented in the relay, and will also place six girls in the dash events, while the Fairwinds Athletic Club has entered seven representatives in the dashes and also a team in the special invitation 440-yard relay for women.

A large crowd of Baltimore fans is expected to see their prizes in competition on Wednesday night.

Stecher and Lewis Settle Old Feud on Mat Tonight

Capacity Crowd of 9,300 Expected to Pay $95,000 to See World's Heavyweight Title Decided; Both Primed.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—With the breaking gap for wrestling, Joe Stecher, of Dodge, Neb., and Ed (Stanger) Lewis, of Kansas City, will meet here tomorrow night to settle a dispute of seven years' standing over the world's heavyweight championship.

The match, to a positive two-fall finish, will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p.m. and will be refereed by the previous high mark for wrestling when $78,000 was recorded for the second Frank Gotch-George Hackenschmidt match in Chicago back in 1912.

Promoter Tom Pack said tonight he had about $49,000 advance sale in his strong box, but he declined to say that the Coliseum can hold a throng of 9,300. Pack says there are plenty of seats at all prices awaiting customers.

Under the terms of the match, Lewis and Stecher will wrestle on a percentage basis, but no definite announcement was forthcoming from Promoter Pack as to the exact terms.

Lewis, it was reported, will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts, while Stecher will take down 50 per cent of the net intake. The bout, in which the winner must win by a knockout, will be a real test of Lewis and Stecher since they have been snapping at each other, both claiming the title.

Since the memorable match between Lewis and Wayne "Big" Mann in Kansas City in January, 1925, when Mann scored Lewis out of the ring, the Munn-Jones feud has been the talk of the town.

Although Lewis claimed he was fouled in the Kansas City match, Mann proclaimed himself as champion. Then he engaged the veteran Stanislaus Zhyzko in Philadelphia in April, 1925, and was decisively defeated. On May 30 of the same year Stecher won from Zhyzko, the champion of Missouri at St. Louis and claimed the title.

On the afternoon that Stecher was beating Zhyzko, Lewis said he had been in Michigan City, Ind., and set up his claim to having regained the title he says he lost on a foul to Mann.

So far as condition is concerned, both Lewis and Stecher say they are at their best and each is confident of victory. There will be little to choose between them in a two-fall match, which will be a long-drawn-out struggle, with the winner in doubt. They say it looks like a toss-up, with Lewis relying upon his famous "headlock" to offset Stecher's equally famous body scissors hold.

Those with sufficient courage to risk their cash have done so at even prices.

Paulino Batters Two Sparring Partners

Los Angeles, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, vigorously punned two sparring partners today in his first glove-thriving contest, since moving into his Bantamweight Ranch camp near here to condition himself for the George Godfrey tussle the night of February 28.

The Bantamweighter took on Leo Diebe, a route, rugged body puncher, from Oklahoma, and husky Tony Randolph and gave each a slashing body attack. The workout showed Paulino to be a real route, rugged body puncher.

Paulino's first few days at the camp were marked only by light workouts, as he arrived here a week ago from Mexico City practically in fighting condition.

The program of his giant negro opponent at a camp near Ojai, Calif., has been entirely different. Godfrey has been boxing seven to nine rounds daily, cutting down trees and tramping the hills for the last two weeks in an effort to melt off weight. Today, however, he took things easy, playing host to a big barbecue.

Peltzer at Georgetown For Rest and Training

Dr. Otto Peltzer, the famous German runner and holder of many world's records, arrived at Georgetown University this morning, coming from Chicago. He has completed the educational survey which was the motive for his visit to America, and will not devote a few days to getting in condition for the big race he hopes to run in this country. If he can get in good shape he will meet Lloyd Hahn and Ray Conger at the Knights of Columbus games in New York on February 29.

Dr. Peltzer is tired out from his journeys and labors in connection with his educational survey, and will take a little rest at Georgetown before beginning intensive training for his mile race at the Casey games. He feels that with the ideal climate of Washington at this time and the fine outdoor board track at Georgetown, and the competition he will get from the great track team at the Hilltop, he will be ready for the race of his life by February 29 and he feels his mile race will be a real experience in handling both Hahn and Conger.

Shotgun Leads Phils On Trip to Florida

Philadelphia, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—The first group of southward-bound Phillies, headed by Burt Shotton, their new manager, but with Frank Ulrich, first-string pitcher, missing from the ensemble, left here today for the spring training grounds at Winter Haven, Fla.

In the party, besides Shotton, Coach Hunter, were Ferguson, Mitchell, Walsh and Mails, pitchers; O'Donnell and Wheat, catchers, and Scout Joe O'Rourke.

Ulrich, who had expected to join the others when their train reached Baltimore, is confined in a hospital here with pneumonia.

Shotton informed sport writers that all the Phils had signed contracts but two and that these were not holdouts.

BURLEIGH WILL SING OVER RADIO TONIGHT

Famous Colored Composer to Give Program of Talk and Spiritual Songs.

OTHER STARS ON THE AIR

An hour of folk songs and spirituals of the negro race, with Harry Burleigh, famous colored musician, singing them with orchestral band and choral accompaniment, will be a feature of the General Motors family party at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

Burleigh is one of the outstanding leaders who has brought dignity and distinction to his race. For 35 years he has been the principal soloist of St. George's Episcopal Church in New York City, retained over that long period by a white congregation because of the beautiful quality of his barytone voice and his devotion to religious music.

Not only in the vocal field, however, has he attained recognition. He is given full credit in the world of music for having saved the now famous negro folk songs and spirituals from oblivion. Years of research and study of the music of his own people have resulted in the composition and arrangement by him of 185 of these songs, whose beginnings go back to days of antiquity among the black tribes of Africa. Burleigh was a poor boy, born of obscure parents in Erie, Pa., 61 years ago, the grandson of a slave. His success in music has been coincident with a long struggle for livelihood in a restricted field of endeavor, varying from deck hand to bookkeeper. In spite of these limitations he managed to work his way through school and to graduate from Howard University in this city.

Mr. Burleigh will sing "My Lord, What a Morning," "I Stood on de Ribber ob Jordan," and "I Don't Feel No Ways Tired." In the first group, then, "Go Down, Moses," accompanied by the Hall-Johnson Singers. In his second group, he will sing "Lonesome Valley," and "Got a Home in a Dat River," with chorus and band. The Hall-Johnson Singers will present "City Called Heaven," "Water Boy," and "Golden Slippers."

The Gypsies will dedicate their program tonight to the State of South Carolina, with the favorite selection of Gov. J. G. Richards—Mendelssohn's "On the Wings of Song," as the featured number. To "Time-to-Retire" boys will present a half hour of popular number at 10:30 o'clock.

Yasha Bunchuk, sometimes called "the fiddler of the cello," has returned to the group of artists directed by Roxy, and will be heard in the gang program tonight. Bunchuk, a graduate of the Russian Imperial Conservatory of Music at Petrograd, was presented with a $10,000 Guggenheim scholarship by Gen. Leemoff, then in command of the Russian forces.

A luncheon of the Association of Community Chests and Councils will be broadcast from the Mayflower Hotel at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The principal speaker will be W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University.

Mrs. Helen Keister Jurden, a reader, will present James Whitcomb Riley's "Prior to Miss Belle's Appearance," and Joe Chandler Harris' "Mister Coon and Mister Rabbit" from station WTTG at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

The Johns Hopkins University Musical Club will go on the air from station WBAL at Baltimore at 9:30 o'clock tonight. The club includes a large male chorus, a band group, a Hawaiian troupe and the "Blue Jay" Orchestra.
